“Miami County Commissioners Announce the Availability of Online Zoning Maps”

The Miami County Commissioners announce today that zoning maps for the 8 townships within their zoning jurisdiction are available on the County’s website. With the help of the Miami Valley Regional Planning Commission (MVRPC), the Miami County Department of Development has created a link to view the searchable zoning maps on the county website (www.miamicountyohio.gov) under the Department of Development/Planning and Zoning tabs. In addition to zoning classifications, parcel data for most properties is also available via a direct link to the Miami County Auditor’s website. Residents can search for information via address, parcel number, and/or zoom to a particular area and obtain the associated zoning information.

Commissioner John F. “Jack” Evans “thanked the Miami County Department of Development and MVRPC for their efforts to make this valuable tool available through our new county website.”

Dan Suerdieck added, “The availability of online zoning maps is important for Economic Development purposes as it allows potential site selectors to obtain property specifics while staying anonymous. Our citizens will be able to look at the maps when planning their future moves or investment.”

“This is another example of Miami County’s commitment to our citizen’s and promoting economic development in Miami County. We will continue to implement new technology to promote, enhance and inform our citizens and those people interested in investing in Miami County.” Stated Commissioner John W. “Bud” O’Brien

Commission President Richard Cultice concluded by saying, “edits to the zoning maps will be made regularly so that the public has the most up to date zoning information available.”
